1 The Greenway & Lanes – 20 minutes

Starting at the new Bus Interchange, walk past the Justice Precinct and left into Durham Street down into the heart of the southern food, shopping and entertainment area – The Greenway. The Greenway is the ecological spine of the South Frame, and provides a greener, more pleasant space to walk or bike away from the roads. The Greenway will be extended over the coming years as land becomes available. The walk will take you past Vanguard Square and many new bars and eateries.

2 Walk to the Heart – 30 minutes

Walk down to the river and along the marble wall inscribed with the names of those who lost their lives in the February 2011 earthquake. After crossing the bridge, walk along the north bank of the memorial – a quiet space to sit and reflect. Follow the path to the Triumphal Arch before connecting with the main retail area. After a lap around the ANZ building and a shortcut through the BNZ building courtyard, walk down the steps at The Terraces for some eel spotting!

3 Welcome to the Arts – 20 minutes

Take a walk along the Ōtākaro/Avon River keeping an eye out for “Gormley” in the water near the new Worcester Street punt stop. On Armagh Street you can see Convention Centre works in progress, the Victoria Square restoration and the Performing Arts Precinct. Walk down the boutique New Regent Street, home of coffees and cocktails to reach the restored Isaac Theatre Royal.

4 Family Park Walk – 30 minutes

View the construction of the eastern residential development and the new linear park between Lichfield and Armagh Streets. The park is for everyone, whether they are commuting to work by bike, walking their dog, or relaxing on the grass with a book. This walk ends at the popular Margaret Mahy Family Playground. Stop and play!

Ōtākaro Limited is building major projects and places for people in the central city:

- New parks, paths and gathering places
- New facilities like the Metro Sports Facility and Convention Centre
- A place to remember—the Canterbury Earthquake National Memorial – Finished
- A new 900 home neighbourhood—the East Frame
- Improvements to the traffic network.

Christchurch people know that building major projects is disruptive. It can be especially hard on businesses, with changes to access, parking, noise and dust. Please keep supporting businesses in the central city, even if it takes a bit more effort.

It will be a busy year in 2017. Ōtākaro thanks everyone for their patience while we build these projects.
